

STATEMENT · CANVAS · PROSE

big-number

Single oversized number as the focal claim.

AUDIENCE RECALL

92%

of the audience remembers a single number from a deck.
Make it count.

When NOT to reach for big-number.

kpi

Multiple metrics on one slide.

Two big numbers on one canvas dilute both. Use for a row of three metrics or for a grid of four; reserve big-number for genuinely solo claims.

content

Caption longer than one line.

If the caption needs a sentence to explain, the number isn't carrying the slide. Either trim the number's claim or move to where prose has room.

Decorative numbers without an argument.

"99.99% uptime" by itself is a boast, not a claim. Big-number works when the number is the answer to a question the audience came in with.

See also.

RELATED COMPONENTS

`stats` — row of 2-3 metrics, comparable visual weight

`kpi` — grid of 4-6 metrics with status indicators

`split-metric` — the metric needs a paragraph of context alongside it

`content` — the argument is mostly prose with a number embedded