`cover` — the chart owns the canvas, the caption owns the floor.

Distinct from `image full`: that's for photographs; `cover` is for charts (and the occasional statement).

How we stack up across the buying criteria.

Meridian leads on performance and support; Helios is the value pick across pricing and ecosystem.

Where the planning quarter actually went.

Nearly half went to producing decks; the deciding itself was the smallest slice.

On a plain content slide, `COVER` keeps the body's standard margins so prose stays readable, and only the caption band breaks out to the edges. Charts fill the bleed; content keeps its gutters. Same modifier, the layout decides.

Content keeps its margins; only charts fill the bleed.

The trailing line is clamped to two, so the caption never grows a third.

One global modifier, focused on charts, leaving image's own `FULL` exactly as it was.

`cover` — shipped for the chart family.
