

ANCHOR · BOOKEND · PROSE

closing

Final slide. Dark canvas mirror of title.

The signal was always there. Now we have a system that looks.

Product Strategy · Q3 2025

Take this away.

Closing 04

The signal was always there. Now we have a system that looks.

Product Strategy · Q3 2025

The signal was always there. Now we have a system that looks.

Product Strategy · Q3 2025

When NOT to reach for closing.

Multi-line h1. Keep the closing line to one editorial sentence. The layout is centered and large — two-line closings get cramped and lose impact.

Header or footer overrides. Don't reinstate `_header:` or `_footer:` on the closing. The dark canvas is the "we're done" signal; chrome breaks it. Use the `silent` modifier to suppress all three in one token.

Mid-deck closing. If the audience needs a strong statement mid-deck, use `big-number` or `content` with the `dark` modifier. Reserving closing for the final slide preserves its bookend role.

See also.

RELATED COMPONENTS

`title` — opens the deck — same dark-bookend chrome

`divider` — mid-deck section breaks — same dark canvas

`big-number` — single emphatic statement mid-deck without the bookend signal