The Global South, first-class

A stated, dated definition that ships with the data — pinned to the UN Group of 77 + China, dated 2025.

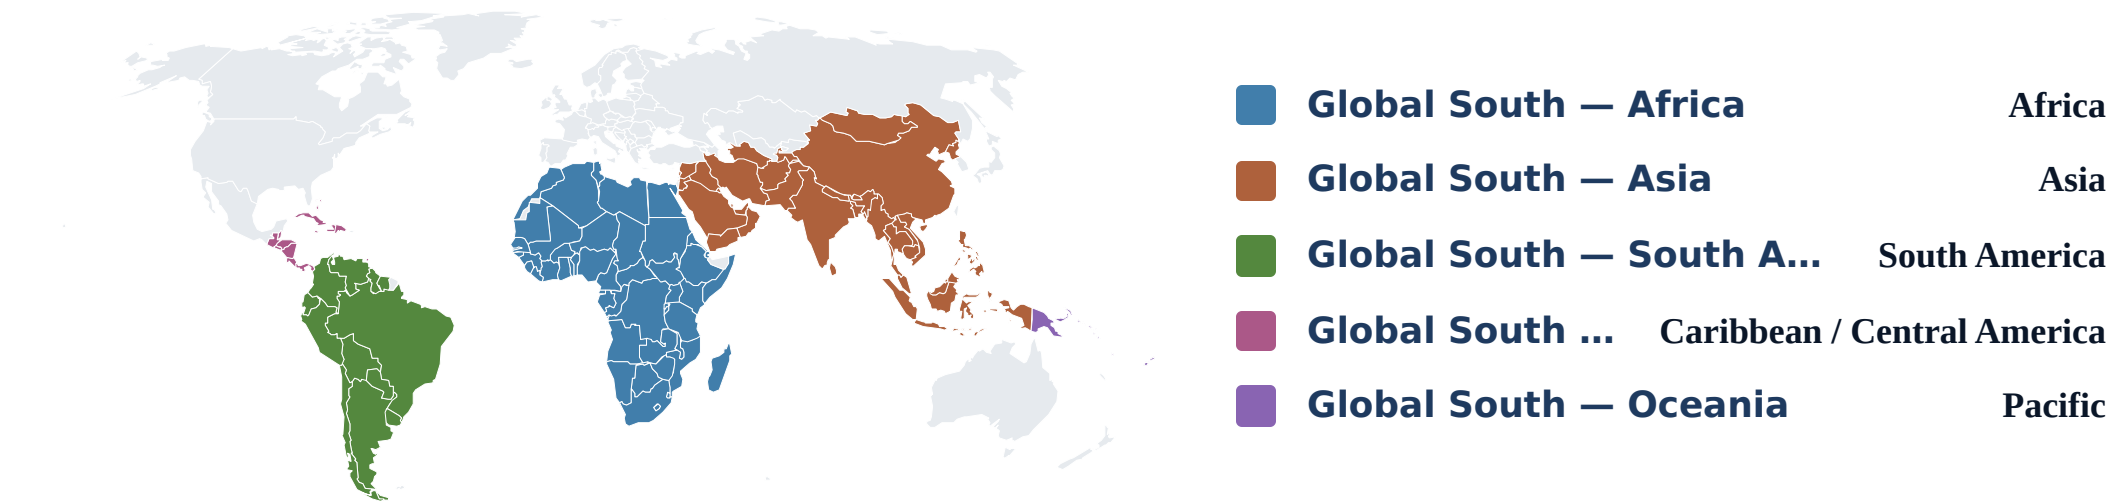

Omission isn't neutral.

Leaving "Global South" out doesn't keep the engine impartial — it just makes every deck hand-roll an undocumented ~130-country roster, so the political call lands invisibly and inconsistently. Shipping one sourced, dated roster is the transparent choice: the definition travels with the data, and an author can cite it.

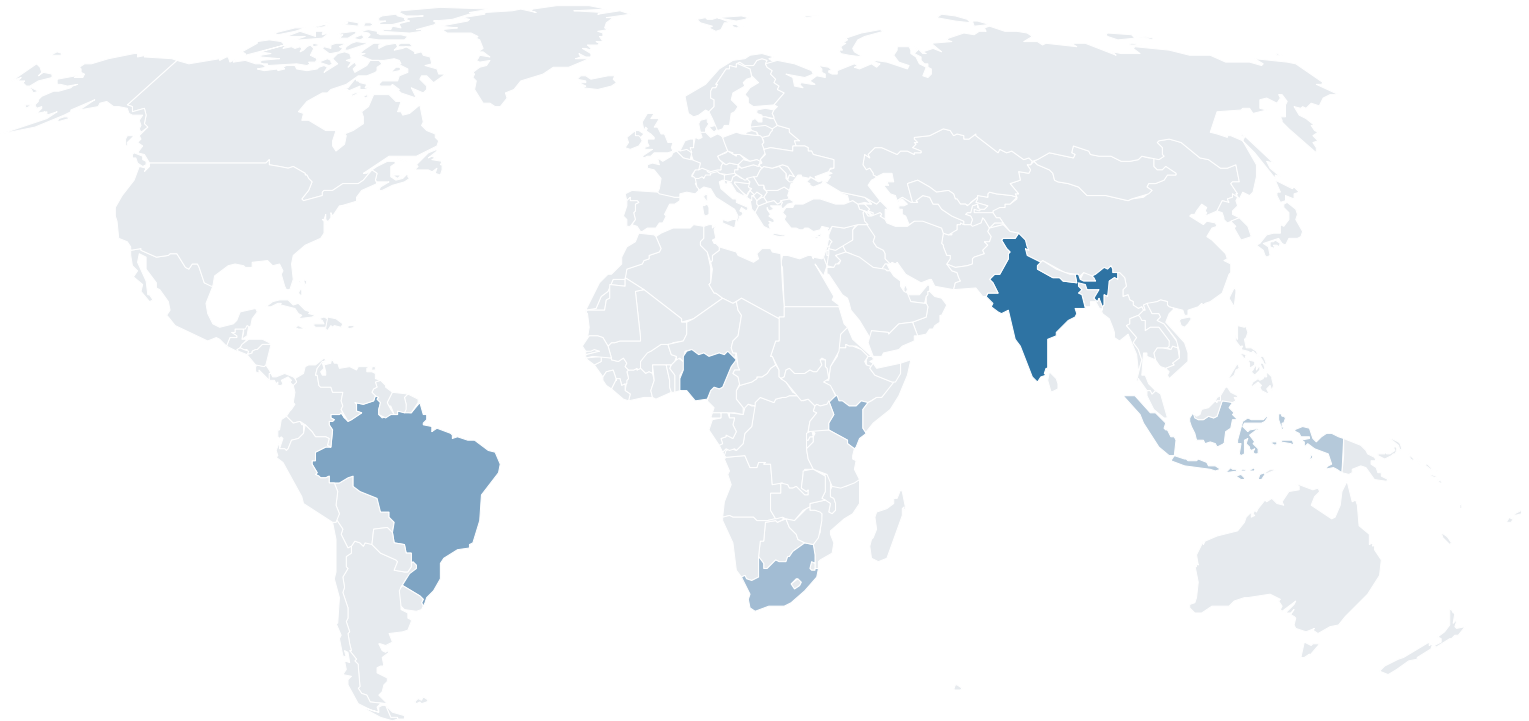

Two worlds, one stated definition.

The Global South, by region.

Or colour the members directly.

India	12.1
Nigeria	9.2
Brazil	8.5
Kenya	7.4
South Africa	6.8
Indonesia	5.9

The boundary stays provable.

Every group ships its `source` and `asOf`. States in neither list — Russia, the post-Soviet and Balkan economies, disputed territories — belong to no `global-` group, rather than being forced into one.*
